Dear Parents,

EXTREME READING CHALLENGE

Yesterday, on World Book Day we launched the 'Extreme Reading Challenge'! As part of our ongoing hard work at Westwood School to promote reading as a pleasurable activity the children (and parents too if they would like to join in) have been challenged to find the most 'extreme' place to be photographed reading and enjoying a book. The challenge will run until July, the end of the summer term, when prizes for the most unusual and extreme will be awarded.

We would really appreciate it if you could encourage your child to join in with the challenge. Ready printed photographs can be brought in to be displayed on our challenge board or, if you prefer, photos can be emailed to the school office.

Please provide a brief description of the photo. The children (and parents) are encouraged to enter as many photos of different 'extreme' reading places as they wish.

Many thanks for your support towards what we hope will be a motivating and fun challenge!

Regards
